Government Is Facing Problem Reducing C. W. A.

Approximately Four Million Men And Women Are To Be Demobilized

EXPECT MAY WILL END C. W. A. PROJECTS

Government Hopes Summer Will Bring Much Improved Situation

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—The government found itself "on the spot" today as plans proceeded apace for the demobilization of 4,000,000 CWA workers.

Beginning Feb. 15, it is planned to drop half a million a week from the federal payrolls for the next eight weeks, winding up by May 1 the greatest artificial employment program ever attempted in any country at any time.

As a strictly demobilization operation nothing can compare with it except the demobilization of the A. E. F. and the army at the close of the war. The numbers involved are approximately the same, 4,000,000.

Deluged With Messages.

From the four corners of the country, Washington is being deluged with protests and inquiries. Boiled down, the questions amount to this: "Now what? What are these 4,000,000 going to do?"

There isn't any answer—yet. There is only hope—hope that re-activating industry will be in a position by May 1 to absorb some hundreds (Continued On Page Two)

PA NEW OBSERVES

Automobile driving at McConnell's Mills will probably be a greater pleasure next summer than it has been in the past because the county's CWA, realizing the value of road improvements at that scenic spot, has made that one of its projects. A corps of men are making a vigorous attack on the roadway there now.

Readers who hastily read about the Federal-State Employment office here probably know little of the actual story about what it does outside of CWA hiring. As many functions the whole year through as a job finding bureau for unemployed men and women right now, because of the CWA demands, it's work has grown much heavier. When Pymatuning dam workers were chosen, that office did the choosing.

Pa. News understands that New Castle's adult persons, many of the employed ones as well as the unemployed, are taking to these CWA-sponsored night school classes at the North Street school in a manner that encourages educational leaders. Education is worth considering, when it's free, well, no wonder the classes are popular! They certainly should be!

"Everyone cooperates fine" remarked a CWA pre-school survey worker to Pa. News today, displaying the question sheets that parents are asked to fill out by every census-taker. The survey is reported to be making good progress.

Game Warden Frank Coen is receiving a number of rabbit shipments from a propagation farm in Quincy, Pennsylvania, this week. The rabbits will be released in various parts of the county.

Nearly 600 Men Working In Cunningham Park

There's a piece of the old west out beyond the eastern edge of the city. Not the cow punching, dance halling, faro dealing old west, but the construction days period, when thousands of men were scattered over the prairies, building railroads. That's the old west replica they have now in what you call Cunningham Park.

Not that anyone is building a railroad. It is a highway, a highway that starts in near Wilson Ave. goes east for a half mile, then diverges in a huge "Y." One branch will be cut through to Washington street, one to Cascade Boulevard, and the stem parallels the first road and goes west to a road which will connect it with Gaston Park.

An Amazing Project

By all odds the Cunningham Park project is the most picturesque project in the county. Here is a group of men, building a road, preparing for an athletic field. Then the road building groups, 26 different groups scattered from the city line at Wilson avenue all the way across to Cascade Lake.

What was once a corn field is now being transformed into a fifty foot highway graded as only an expert engineer can lay it out. Small rises in the ground are being dug out and depressions are filled in. The remainder of last year's corn crop is going to make way for a thoroughfare that will provide motorists with a delightful drive in the summer days and evenings.

Down below the project is a young mountain of ashes that will be used to spread over the highway, while in the broad acres on each side there will be athletic fields, rest houses, benches and the like.

Court Hears Testimony In Mandamus On Fees For Court House Plans

Testimony was taken before Judges R. L. Hildebrand and James A. Chambers in court Friday afternoon on the mandamus brought by The Thayer Company, architects against County Controller, R. C. McCaslin, to compel the payment of $7800, claimed for drawing preliminary plans for a new court house.

Lawren N. Thayer and Controller McCaslin were the principal witnesses. In the examination of McCaslin it was sought to bring out his reason for not approving the Thayer bill. The question involved is whether the controller occupies a discretionary or a ministerial position with referenda to this contract. The plaintiff contends it is ministerial and the defendant that it is discretionary.

At the conclusion of the testimony the court announced that arguments will be heard on next Tuesday afternoon.

Company Employed

Attorney W. Walter Braham, representing the petitioner, first took up the mandamus and the answer filed by the controller, pointing out the paragraphs in the petition which were admitted in the answer. These related to the actions of the county commissioners. They showed that on Oct. 17th, 1933, the county commissioners passed a resolution to build a court house. On Oct. 25th, The Thayer Company were employed as architects. A contract was drawn up and on Nov. 1, it was approved by the court. The contract provided that the Thayer Company was to receive 6 per cent, known as the basic rate, on the estimated cost of $650,000 for the court house. Upon the completion of preliminary plans the Thayer Company was to receive 20 per cent of their commission. The plans were made and on Nov. 22, the county commissioners approved the $7800 which was approved by the county commissioners.

Pinchot Sees Better Times

Says President's Program Is Leading Nation Out Of Depression

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—Gov. Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania declared in an interview today that he is confident President Roosevelt is "rapidly leading the country out of its trouble to better times."

"Business is picking up rapidly," said the governor. "The effect of the various measures instituted by the president are being felt. We are emphatically on the upgrade."

The 66 year old distinguished looking governor sat propped up in bed in his room at St. Luke's hospital as he talked to the International News Service reporter. The governor has been suffering from shingles—a harmful but painful infection of the nerve ganglia—since December.

In an adjoining room lay the governor's wife, who on Thursday submitted to a minor ear operation. She is improving rapidly and expects to be out of the hospital in a day or so.

Governor Pinchot looked well for a sick man. He laughed about his "shingles" saying he was satisfied that what Job suffered from was shingles—not boils. He expects to be back at work in about ten days or two weeks.

Conditions in Pennsylvania, he asserted, are improving steadily. There are now less than 1,000,000 unemployed in the state as against 1,400,000 jobsless last May.

WOMAN PHYSICIAN IS NEAR TO DEATH

Ordeal Of Continuing Trial Likely To Be Too Much For Her

By DOROTHY DUCAS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, Jan. 20.—And now the fight is all Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop's. No more can attorneys, belligerent or suave, help her.

Very little can her fellow-physicians do to weight the scales in her favor.

Even her children, Walker and Catherine and the ne'er do well Earle, cannot with their strength and faith revive the flickering candlelight of her endurance.

Alone, lying in her bed in Cook County Prison, women's ward, she must down the forces of weakness which are engulfing her, if she is to clear her name before she passes beyond the reach of any smirch.

She must do it quickly. Do it by Monday morning, when Judge Joseph B. David reconvenes the court where she has been standing trial for the murder of Rheta Gardner Wynekoop, the girl her son Earle wooed and won and loved no more.

Five Chicago Youths, Robbers Of Bank At Girard, Illinois, Are Captured

QUINCY, Ill., Jan. 20.—Five Chicago youths, objects of a thrilling 100-mile chase following the $5,000 robbery of the State bank at Girard (Ill.), were under arrest today after a battle with 100 possemens. Most of the loot was recovered.

Two of the alleged bandits were wounded by bullets from the officers' pistols and riot guns.

Although still armed, four of the five gunmen walked from a patch of woods on a farm near Basco, Ill., and surrendered to the peace officers who had surrounded the hiding place. The fifth jumped astride a horse and tried to escape but was overtaken and captured.

Then, Dr. Alice will die without knowing whether twelve men believed she chloroformed a defenseless young woman and shot her in the back, or whether they were ready to absolve her of any blame.

Or else, recovering, there will be the same gruelling week and a half to live through again, the same bloodstained garments upon which to gaze, the same damning words of a fellow-physician: "She told me she did it to save the poor dear."

That is why, with all the reserves of her already unbelievable strength, Dr. Wynekoop is struggling today to get well.

Three physicians who examined her yesterday will report to the court on Monday as to her condition, but she would have to make rapid strides to inject any note of optimism in that report. Weary unto death, used up mentally and emotionally and physically by the strain of listening to the state's case against her, Dr. Wynekoop is as nearly a dead woman who breathes and talks as it is possible for any living creature to be.

She has presented the aspect of death for several days, her face a mask of alabaster, faintly tinged with blue, her long, slender fingers, doctor's fingers, stiff with pain and resourcelessness.

The examining doctors already have attested the reality of the woman's physical collapse. When they left the jail yesterday, they said: "She's sick all right." They would not make detailed reports save to the court.

BARTLESVILLE, Okla., Jan. 20.—Louis Sam Dresser, Kansas school teacher who was kidnapped yesterday by two of seven convicts escaped from the Kansas state penitentiary at Lansing, was released early today near Bartlesville, Okla.

Brady and Clark, with Dresser their captive, had made their flight from near Wallula, Kans., south of Lansing, to near Bartlesville in Dresser's coupe.

Dresser said he was released when Brady and Clark found another coupe, which they stole. They returned Dresser's car to him and told him to beat it.

It is also expected that the dam will prevent any possibility of flood in the Shenango Valley in the spring.

Thayer was called to show that the Thayer Company members are regularly registered architects, twelve sheets of drawings were shown witness, who testified that they comprised the preliminary plans for a court house. He said that it would reasonably take four months to complete the plans. Mr. Thayer said that he was present at a meeting of the county commissioners, the controller and his attorney and the county solicitor held in a grand jury room on December 5. He stated that at this meeting the controller or his attorney, Orville Brown, had said that there was no question over the amount of the bill, the question being one of approval.

Cross examined by Brown witness was asked if any statement of the time necessary to complete preliminary plans had been made to the county commissioners. He said the only statement which had been made was that the work would be speeded up in order to get the federal loan.

Witness was asked if the plans submitted were not practically the same as the court house at Clarksburg, W. Va. Objected was raised to this question. It was sustained by the court.

"Is it not true that you and the county commissioners visited the court house at Clarksburg, W. Va., previously to the presentation of these plans?"

Objected raised, and sustained.

Cross Examined
County Controller, R. C. McCaslin called on cross examination. Shown letter which he identified as having sent to Attorney Graham and the County Solicitor, Lockhart. It gave reasons why he had refused to approve the architect's bill.

Architect Thayer re-called, stated that the estimate of the cost of the court house given the commissioners was $650,000. The amount of the bill of $7,800 was 20 per cent.

"Isn't it true that the cost of material and labor would be $700,000?"

"No."

"How did you arrive at your estimate?"

Partly by taking the cubic feet. "Had you any buildings to compare it with?"

"Yes, the court house at Racine, Wis., and Clarksburg, W. Va., built within the past three years."

"Does your estimate include the architects fees and engineering?"

"It does not."

"Does it include furnishings?"

"It does."

Argue On Site Feature

Defendant proposed to show that the land on which the court house is erected will or may revert to the heirs of the original owners, if it is not used for court house purposes. Plaintiff raised objection.

The court questioned the materiality of the matter.

Attorney C. N. Akens, associated with Brown for the defence, contended that it is material as effecting the fair trial of the case. It is material to know of any money can be expected for the court house property if it abandoned.

Objection to the offer of the original deed for the land was sustained and the matter dropped.

Controller R. C. McCaslin, recalled, was the resolution of the county commissioners of Oct. 17th, 1933 ever presented to you for approval or disapproval," asked Attorney Brown.

"It was not."

"In regard to the claim presented by the Thayer Company, did you take with consideration the reasonableness of the claim?"

"I considered that."

The question of whether or not the controller had any discretion in the matter, here caused considerable argument.

The plaintiff did not claim that the controller had abused his discretion, but contended that he could not exercise his discretion against the project.

"Did you take into consideration that no site had been selected?" asked Brown.

"I did."

"Did you take into consideration the state of the county finances?"

"I did."

"Did you take into consideration that the county land might be abandoned?"

"I did."

"Were you or were you not influenced by the fact that the court of quarter sessions has not approved a new court house and the land, as a whole?"

"Yes."

"Were you influenced by the fact that the action of the county commissioners increased the expenses of the county for 1933 above the amount of tax levied for that year?"

"I was."

"Did the estimate of expenses made for 1933 include any amount for a court house or land?"

"It did not."

"Did you take into consideration the wording of the deed for the land on which the court house stands?"

"I did."

Cross examined by Attorney Graham. "You knew that the county was preparing to get a government loan?"

"I did."

"And you knew that the county might get a grant of about $215,000."

"I did."

"When did you know about the deed for the court house land?"

"I think in December 1931 or 32 while I was looking up deeds for the board."

"But the feature of the deed included in there was not known to you then."

"It was not."

Direct examination: "You know that their loan secured from the government will have to be paid back?"

"It will."

"Was there any other reason, not given here, which you had for not approving the Thayer claim?"

"I think they have been covered. There was the question of law, the amount asked, the basic rate, and the fact that no site had been selected and no contract signed as a whole."

"Were you ever asked by the commissioners or others to approve the contract with the Thayer Company?"

"I was not."

Y. M. C. A. Notes

WILL DINE IN SPRING

A scheduled Ladies' Night banquet of the Senior Hi-Y club for next Monday has been postponed until some time next spring. Boy's Work Director Harry McClelland has announced.

However, the club will gather at the Y to install its newly elected semester officers that evening.

CHECKER ROOM READY

Within the next few days the Y. M. C. A.'s new checker room at the end of the main floor lobby will be opened for use.

Workmen have erected a convenient room for that purpose for the sole use of members of the association. Other lobby changes will be made at the same time the checker room is opened.

WOMEN LIKE POOL

Swimming continues to be a popular sport with girls and women of New Castle as classes in the women's division of the Y. M. still draw large attendances.

Competent instruction is afforded to those who enroll in the classes.

To keep curtains from flapping while you have the windows open to do your cleaning, sew small snaps on the lower end of each curtain and then on the upper part. Snap them together when you open your windows at night or when airing the room.

QUITTING HIGH SCHOOL

In various cities it is found that more senior high school pupils have quit school this year than in any other year since 1926. Many are post-graduates who continued in school because there were no jobs for them when they got their diplomas. Some of these have been finding work lately. Others, too, have quit either for jobs or hope of jobs. Work permits issued the more numerous by 10 per cent than last year.

It is good to know that there are more jobs ready for young men who want them and are old enough for them. But education should not be dropped at the first sign of a chance to work unless it is absolutely necessary. The depression has not altered the fact that sound education and training are valuable assets, not only on the side of material advantage, but also for the enrichment of the life of the individual. Boys and girls of school age should be encouraged to remain in school at least through the completion of the high school course.

DON'T FRET ABOUT GOLD MONEY

The mere fact that gold no longer circulates as money in the United States need cause no popular alarm. Pig iron and tin are not money either.

For some years past an extremely small quantity of gold has been seen as money in France, England and Japan. They have gold reserves, as does the United States, but as a hand-to-hand medium of exchange gold has been rapidly disappearing.

Economists have long contended that the shipping of bags of gold coin or chunks of gold bullion back and forth across the oceans to settle international balances was crude and unnecessary.

Our American Federal Reserve Bank System accomplishes a similar result in a far more scientific and economical manner. At the close of each day the net gold balances of these twelve Reserve Banks are settled to the last cent at Washington by a mere process of bookkeeping.

As actual money, gold is too expensive. It is too heavy and it is scarce. Ninety per cent of America's business is transacted in bank checks—the most scientific, cheapest and thoroughly ideal system ever yet devised.

If the whole world withdrew gold from actual circulation, nobody would be the worse for it says the Philadelphia Inquirer. On the contrary, international trade could be handled far more easily.

There should be no more need for England to send 10,000,000 in actual gold bullion to the United States than for John Doe in Camden to send a carload of iron washers to settle a debt to Richard Roe in Trenton.

SOLVED HIS OWN PROBLEMS

Striking is the case of Edward Dwyer, of Weymouth, Mass. Mr. Dwyer is a dairy farmer. At 21 he stands out as a conspicuous example of what initiative and intelligent and close application to work can do in the achievement of success.

His case came to public attention the other day when the Massachusetts state department of agriculture honored him for his "creditable accomplishments in dairying."

In a day when all branches of farming the crying for aid and the government is supplying this in increasing quantities, and when unrest in some agricultural sections is taking the form of mob violence, the case of the Massachusetts dairyman is deserving of more than ordinary attention. Mr. Dwyer began farming in 1915. He made his start with one cow, and today owns 75 head of cattle, 1,000 swine, seven horses and 800 hens. His success was not easily won. For several years he worked seven days a week from 4 a. m. to 3 p. m. His cow had a family, which Dwyer sold and, with the proceeds, bought a cow. With the cow's milk he started a small delivery route among his neighbors. Then from his father he borrowed a little money and enlarged his herd, meanwhile graduating from the Norfolk county agricultural school.

He probably still has his problems, but in reaching his present stage of success he demonstrated an ability for dealing with such things that must give him a very satisfying feeling of confidence in the future.

WALKING HIGHWAYS AT NIGHT

People walking on highways at night are lucky to escape death, according to the Massachusetts highway accident survey. They may think they are being careful and keeping to a lane on the road which will make them quickly visible to approaching drivers, but they are wrong.

The survey showed that, even under ideal driving conditions, a driver at night is able to see a pedestrian only six seconds before he reaches him when traveling at 10 miles an hour; three seconds at 20 miles; and one and a half seconds at 40 miles an hour. If he is a good driver, possessing judgment as well as skill, if his car is in good condition, if traffic is not heavy and if the weather is good so that there is no danger of skidding, the motorist will get safely past the pedestrian. Very often these ideal conditions do not prevail, and another traffic accident, perhaps with fatalities, is the result.

It is just as well to keep off the highway paving strip at night. Or if that is unavoidable, the pedestrian should carry a light or step off the pavement when a car approaches.

CALL MR. BROWN

The senate committee investigating air mail contracts has brought to light many things that at least give a questionable aspect to some of the transactions of the post office department under the administration of Walter F. Brown.

The burning of certain records, as described by a witness, is only one of these. At least two air companies, other witnesses testified, suffered heavy losses—one even being forced into liquidation at 50 cents on the dollar—as result of a "freeze out" from air mail contracts by Mr. Brown. The postmaster general's stipulation for night flying temporarily eliminated them from consideration, said the witnesses.

In fairness to the former postmaster general, it should be remembered that only one side yet has been heard. The former department head has expressed a willingness to appear before the committee for questioning. This opportunity should be given him. His testimony is needed if many of the apparently strange things that occurred under his administration are to be explained.

The surplus of road hogs shows no signs of decreasing.

HOW ABOUT YOU?

Do your opinions change as you grow older?

And when you think of the person you used to be and remember the thoughts and beliefs he held do you think of him as if he were another human being entirely?

You were 15 once and then you were 20. You were 25 once, but 10 years came along and before you knew it you were 35. And after that you were 45 or 50?

And with each year you felt yourself changing, gaining a little in experience, and growing, you hoped, in wisdom and solidity. Feeling, perhaps, slightly paternal and even somewhat patronizing or impatient toward the young people whom you know. And even toward that young thing you used to be.

But did you ever ask yourself: Am I wiser or am I merely older? What have I really learned? Have I grown as much as I think I have? There are things I used to do that I do no more. Have I changed my ways because my muscles are stiffer or because my mind has settled in its ways, because I have lost my faith and my confidence in life? What is this boasted experience, anyway, if it has taught me only to be cautious where once I was bold, if I have learned but to crouch in ambush where once I mounted boldly, audaciously, to the ramparts of life?

I think a man should take an inventory of himself, in this wise, occasionally. I think a woman should go through her mental and spiritual possessions once in a while and take them out of doors and give them a clean shaking in the air. I think that in no other way can a man assure himself that he is still vigorously alive or is quietly and timidly dying within. The experience may hurt. It may wake us to truths about ourselves that we might prefer to remain hidden.

But it is only thus that you and I or any other human being can assure himself whether he is growing older and wiser or merely growing older.

DON'T ADD TO WORRIES OF THE JOBLESS

As parents of sons and daughters who have been unemployed for some time, you have become caustic at times in alluding to that fact. You even accuse them of not trying to procure jobs.

You emphasize your opinion that they are lazy and too well pleased with a life of leisure to ever amount to anything worth while.

As a matter of fact many young people are indolent. They are not averse to living without working, if possible. The great majority of youth desire employment if for no other reason than that of having money to spend for things they cannot have without earning it.

You have often said that in your youth you could get work with little remuneration, but it was a job. You took any kind of a job till you could get something better. Conditions then and now are quite different.

Many young people who are idle today would accept any kind of work and like it if they could find it. Don't make life any harder for your own than is necessary. If parents won't understand and sympathize, who will? The energetic young person unable to get a job is having enough worry; don't add to it.

LINES TO A FRIEND

Peace is his who sleeps tonight
Under roses red and white.
Wisdom now is his who sought God
In every act and thought,
But behind his friendly door
We shall sit and talk no more.

High above the crowds that press
Seeking fortune and success
And the traffic's roar and hum
To his room he'd bid me come.
There as one who loved to dream
He would talk of sky and stream.

Open wide his heart would swing
Unto every thing living thing.
Great his faith that God must be Close to all that mortal see.
Source of everything that's good,
If we only understood.

He who knew no doubt or fear
While he lived and labored here
Now has gained that wisdom which Far exceeds treasures rich;
Found that great abundant love
Which he was so certain of.

The World At A Glance

A Look Into the Past
Unique Review of U. S.
Enthusiasm for War

By LESLIE EICHEL

Central Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—A friend in Chicago insists that I could make a column of 16 "historic" front pages issued by the Chicago Tribune. Usually one CAN look into the future by examining the past.

The Tribune is a brave paper to expose its weaknesses of the past—for those front pages seem somewhat ironic, somewhat sad now.
They are milestones of tragedy.

Page No. 1 is on Monday, April 15, 1861. The Civil War has begun.
People do not know that. The North, believes it a "rebellion" which will be "easily put down." The South sees an independent state assured.

Ministers are praising the glory of war. The excitement of the people is at high pitch. Sumter has fallen.
On both sides, young and old march through the streets of the various cities, aflame with patriotism. In a few months several hundred thousand of the marchers will be dead.

But now, as Nashville wins "The enthusiasm is great." And Philadelphia asserts, "The war feeling is rampant here."

In Richmond, Va., "there were demonstrations of joy"—a group has hoisted a "Southern flag" over the capitol (subsequently removed by the Guard).

Governor Dennison of Ohio wired Washington from Columbus offering 10,000 men. He did not know then that would be only a drop in the bucket.

In Chicago Sunday was turned from a day of worship into a paean of patriotism and of war.

In Washington, President Lincoln was "calm and composed." The correspondent adds, "It is believed by all who come within his influence, that he will act with Jacksonian
energy and promptness."

Yet, while both North and South thrilled at the glory of war,
Washington alone bowed its head.

"The war news is received here with feelings of regret. There is no excitement, but the prospect for the future creates a general feeling of depression."

IN 1865
We turn now to a day four years later, Monday, April 10, 1865.
Several hundred thousand men have died.

We read, in the Chicago Tribune:
"The end, the old flag vindicat-
ed. Lee and his whole army surrendered yesterday. The officers and men to be paroled and go home until exchanged. All arms, artillery and munitions of war delivered to General Grant. Officers to retain side arms, horses and baggage. Selma, Ala., reported burned by Union cavalry."

FIVE DAYS LATER
Then, on Saturday, April 15, 1865,
we read:

"Terrible news. President Lincoln assassinated at Ford's theater. A rebel desperado shoots him through the head and escapes. Secretary
Seward and Major Fred Seward stabbed by another desperado. Their wounds are said to be pronounced fatal.
Undoubted plan to murder Secretary
Stanton. The president is dying."

SIX YEARS PASS
Another time of tragedy occurs
more than six years later.
We read on Wednesday, Oct. 11, 1871:

"Fire! Destruction of Chicago!
2,500 acres of buildings destroyed.
Eighty thousand people burned out.
All the hotels, banks, public buildings, newspaper offices and great business blocks swept away. Over a hundred dead bodies recovered from the debris. Tens of thousands of citizens without home, food, fuel or clothing. Eighteen thousand buildings destroyed. Incendiaries and ruffians shot and hanged by thousands."

BE GOOD!
Patient: My wife tells me I talk in my sleep. What should I do?
Doctor: Nothing that you shouldn't.

SCOTCH ATMOSPHERE.
Angus to Donald, who has brought a second-hand car: Man,
it'll cost you plenty for gas.
Donald: Not so much. It's downhill to town, and I can get a tow home most days.

"Yes, the shade on her lips."

SATURDAY JAN 20 1934

Historic Anniversary—1265. The first parliament or confirmed representation of all the people met in the magnificent hall at Westminster which still survives. In it sat the first commoners ever given a voice in the government of England or any western country; there were two knights from each county, two citizens from each borough. The great man responsible for it: Simon de Montfort, Earl of Leicester. He captured and held King Henry III prisoner, wrote in the king's name and summoned the first Commons.

1795—A naval battle was fought on horseback! Mounted Frenchmen rode over the ice, fought for and captured icebound Dutch ships.

1832—Actual work of building the Panama Canal begun by the French, more than 23 years before U. S. had anything to do with it.

Notables Born This Date—Robert Morris, b. 1734, financier of the Revolution. Once the largest individual land owner in the 13 colonies, he died in a debtor's prison.  Joseph Hefmann, b. 1873, one of the greatest living pianists.  Richard Le Gallienne, b. 1836, English poet. **
Mischa Elman, b. 1891, great violinist.  Ruth St. Denis, b. 1882,

SUNDAY
Historic Anniversaries—1793. The royal Bourbon head of Louis XVI, aged 39, plucked into the sand upon the guillotine in the Palace de la Revolution, Paris, and grand monarchy was dead in the world. Other notable deaths upon this date.

1821—Rose Standish, wife of Capt.
Miles Standish, first European woman to depart the world in New England, a famine and fever victim.

In the "Good Old Days"—The British parliament believed that it could make history by simply passing a law. It once decided that Adam and Eve were born Oct. 28,

Within a few weeks the 37-year-old captain had 22-year-old John Alden asking 18-year-old Priscilla Mullens to be Mrs. Standish. But as is well known, she wed John Alden.

1924—Nicholas Lenin, master of Soviet Russia, and today that godless country's god, died at 54.

Notables Born Jan. 21—Thomas
Jonathan "Stonewall" Jackson, b.
1824. He was 39 when the bullet of one of his own men accidentally ended his brilliant career as a Confederate general.  John C. Fremont, b. 1813, explorer of the Rocky mountains, Republican candidate for the presidency (1856), Union general in war of the states.  John Ca-ball Breckinridge, b. 1821, vice president of the U. S. and Lincoln's Democratic opponent (1860), was also one in 1860 who later served as a general in Confederate army and as south's secretary of war. **
John Fitch, b. 1743, inventor of a steamboat which three governments refused to buy. Robert Fulton had access to his plans and drawings, subsequently promoted with R. R.
Livingston the steamboat successful career. Fitch finally wrote a note
"The day will come when some more powerful man will get fame and fortune from my invention; but nobody will believe poor John Fitch can do anything worthy of attention." Fitch was not a failure. Some 19 years later, a N. Y. legislative committee investigated, found that Fitch and not Fulton was the steamboat's creator.

Frozen North Will Be Topic Of Missionary

Work Of Hospital Where Lindberghs Stopped To Rest And Bathe Will Be Told

Pennsylvanians are to get first-hand information concerning the hospital which is nearest the North Pole through public addresses to be made in the Presbyterian churches of Shenango Presbytery by Miss Lillie M. Bailey of Barrow, Alaska, in accordance with the following schedule:

Sunday, Jan. 21, New Castle, Maitland church at 11 a. m. and West Pittsburg at 7:30 p. m.

Monday, Jan. 22, Bessemer, Wampum.

Tuesday, Jan. 23, Ellwood City, Slippery Rock.

Wednesday, Jan. 24, West Middlesex, Sharpsville, Sharon.

Thursday, Jan. 25, Clark, Clarksville, Transfer.

Friday, Jan. 26, Volant, Leesburg.

Sunday, Jan. 28, Pulaski, New Wilmington, New Castle, First church.

Miss Lillie M. Bailey has for four years been stationed at the Presbyterian Mission hospital at Barrow, Alaska, and will bring to Pennsylvanians a stirring narrative of the frozen North, where a whale hunt is a social event and where the Eskimo children eat frozen fish as if it were candy.

Barrow hospital affords the only medical and surgical attention for people scattered over a range of one thousand miles, and these people are dependent upon the hospital staff for surgical as well as spiritual ministry. It was at the Barrow hospital that the Lindberghs stopped to rest and bathe on their memorable flight to Japan and China.

Miss Bailey will be accompanied on her speaking tour by Dr. Henry W. Lampe of Wooster, O., representative of the Presbyterian board of foreign missions. Miss Bailey is attached to the Presbyterian board of national missions.

The general topic which Dr. Ward will consider in his 8 p. m. sermons is "Personal Loyalty to Christ."

The holy communion will be at 9:30 a. m. Monday, Wednesday and Friday; at 7 a. m. Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

The U. S. sought only the purchase of the city of New Orleans, i. e., the mouth of the Mississippi River, when in 1803 it opened negotiations with France. Napoleon surprised the American minister by announcing that he would consider only the sale of the whole Louisiana territory.

His subject will be "The Work of the United States Employment Service in Lawrence County."

A round table discussion will follow his talk.

Here's Man Made Out Of The Right Kind Of Stuff

Swapped His Labor To Get Material With Which To Build His Home

BLOOMSBURG, Pa., Jan. 20.—"The depression was the best thing for a lot of guys like me," Clyde Welliver, an unemployed roofer, insists.

The reason? Welliver built a three room frame house valued at $1200 at a cost to him of less than $100—for nails and some cement. Unable to get cash for the few jobs he did, Welliver "swapped" his labor for building materials. He painted a roof for a man who gave him some lumber. A bricklayer installed an artistic fireplace in return for a roof Welliver put on the former's house. Other materials were secured similarly.

"You see," Welliver explained, "I am paying $5 a week room rent and I figure I was foolish for doing it. That's how I got the idea of working for materials and supplies."

"THE MARK OF THE BEAST"

City Has Had Ten Fire Chiefs

Present Head Of Department Is Tenth To Hold That Position

DEPARTMENT IS NOW ALMOST CENTURY OLD

H. CLARE STOCKMAN

From the time the office of fire chief was established in 1872 there have been ten who have held this office, historical records of the fire department show. The present chief, H. Clare Stockman, is the tenth to hold this office.

It is doubtful if the average citizen can remember and name more than the last three.

The chiefs in their order of service are as follows:

Capt. John Young, 1872 to 1876; George Hagan, 1876 to 1878; Joseph Strimmar, 1878-1879; Col. D. M. Cubbison, 1879-1880; Capt. A. S. Love, 1880-1881; W. W. Cubbison, 1881-1892; James H. Brown, 1892-1901; Frank J. Connerly, 1901-1924; Charles H. Lynn, 1924-1932; H. Clare Stockman, present incumbent.

The fire department here is almost a hundred years old. On September 29 of last year it was 97 years since the first fire company was organized in New Castle, of which any records are obtainable. This organization was headed by William Dickson, captain, all of the members being volunteers.

In the year 1848, the first fire engine was brought to New Castle. It was a hand-drawn apparatus. In 1875 the first team of horses was purchased. In the year 1911 the first piece of motor apparatus was purchased. Incidentally, it is still in use. Today there are ten pieces of apparatus, seven combination hose and chemical trucks, one 75-foot aerial hook and ladder truck, one chief's car and a service truck. There are 38 paid members in the department, who work on the two-plateau system, ten hours day and 14 hours night, changing every three days, when they work shifts of 24 hours. All paid men are required to attend and report for duty at all second-alarm fires. There are 135 volunteers who assist the paid department.

There are also 24 fire police who act as police officers at fires, assisting the city police in keeping crowds back, guarding property and aiding the firemen.

AROUND CITY HALL

Director of Buildings J. D. Alexander intimated today that city and CWA business has progressed to such a volume that it may be necessary for the city to secure additional quarters. The present quarters on Croton avenue are overcrowded. Plans have been drafted for a new coliseum and garage. The CWA has not yet approved the plans and project. If the CWA does, the building will be constructed on the municipal parking ground in South Jefferson street and the city buildings in Croton avenue will be rented.

City police and firemen are fortunate compared to those in Butler, Pa., according to reports from the county seat of Butler county. In that city the firemen and police who are off duty on account of sickness must stand their own loss. New Castle firemen and policemen are allowed 30 days off each year for illness.

Chief of Police Haven is getting ready to ensnare motorists who speed their cars through streets after traffic lights are turned off at night. Not so long ago an aggregation of motorists who operated to the left of street cars while the latter took on or discharged passengers were caught in the net. Those who speed their cars will be charged with reckless driving. It behooves motorists to accept the warning.

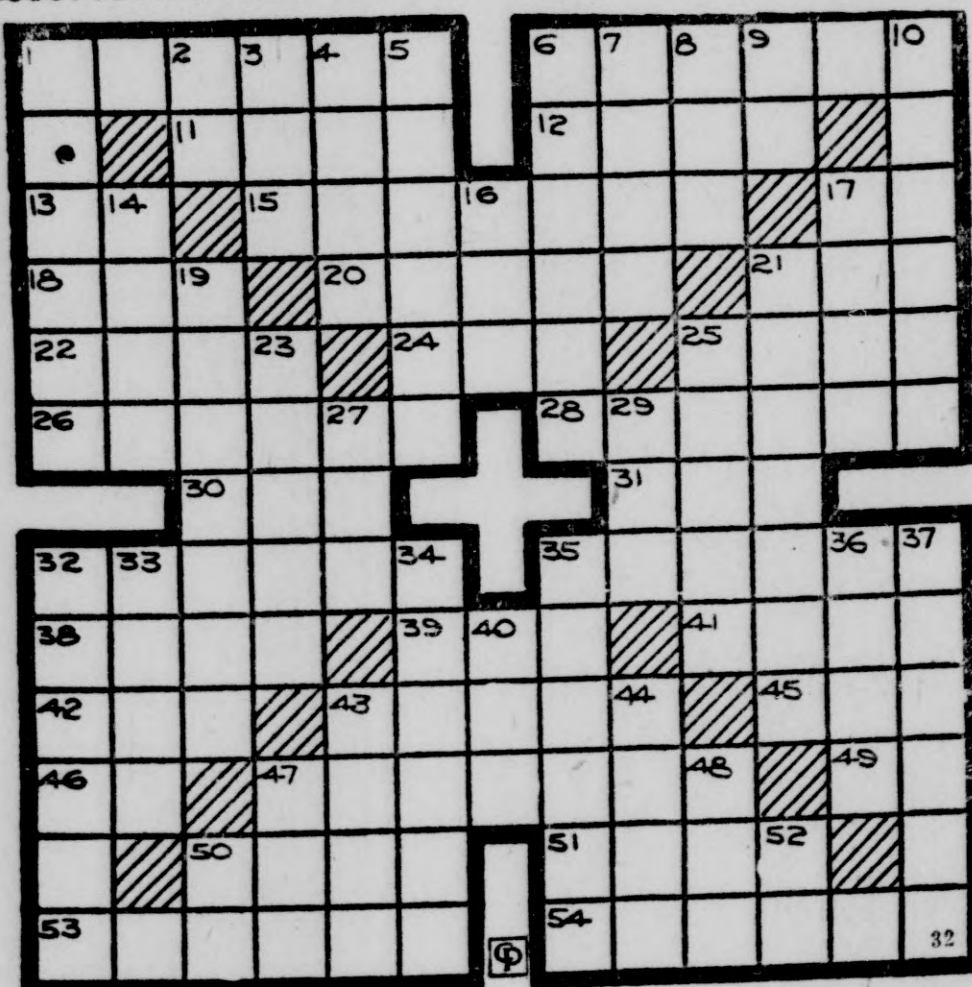

Fire hose salesmen were not allowed to explain the merits of their hose Friday after bids were opened in council chambers, city hall. D. O. Davies, director of safety, told his colleagues that instead of listening to the salesmen the council should check up the various bids. Some years ago the salesmen were allowed to air the merits of their hose. Each was allotted five minutes time. Davies believes the fire chief knows what is best and no doubt will accept the recommendation that the chief submits.

Police chronology for the past 24 hours, ending 3:30 p. m. January 19, five arrests as follows: suspicion, five; violating auto ordinance, 1; and drunkenness, one.

It is probable that some of the folk who have been accustomed to writing "numbers" in public places will abandon the open door policy and now do their writing behind curtains so that city sleuths will not pounce on them when they least expect. At least, this should be the order of things after what happened Thursday when a trio were taken in tow charged with suspicion and had to unloosen a bundle of greenbacks to gain their freedom. In all a total of $350 was paid into the city coffers. In commenting upon affairs of the police, Chief Haven remarked: "There is no protection here."

Stocks Climb To New High Ground

Broad Front To Stock Market Today Sends Ticker Running Behind

PROFIT-SELLING QUICKLY ABSORBED

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—The stock market moved up into new high ground for the recovery today on a broad front with trading heavy enough to throw the ticker 4 minutes behind.

Railroad shares were again in the vanguard of the movement with New York Central, Southern Railway, Southern Pacific, Lackawanna and others scoring moderate gains.

Commodity markets also showed a buoyant tone with wheat up fractionally and cotton about 5 cents a bale higher than yesterday's close. While profit taking became apparent before the end of the first hour causing the list to churn around its highs, there did not appear to be any difficulty in absorbing the selling. Recessions from the highs were small.

Loew's was a feature again today being turned over in enormous volume for a fractional gain. Warner Bros., in which pool operations are reported also was an active feature.

Utility shares swung into the advance today under the leadership of American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, Public Service of N. J., and the lower priced issues including American Water Works, and Columbia Gas.

Armour was a target for short selling as a new stockholder fight against the present management developed and declined about 2 points.

Specialty shares were strong spots with United Aircraft, Celanese, Johns Manville advancing moderately.

Standard of California and other oil issues were buoyant.

The rubbers were again in demand but gained only fractions. Liquor shares were quiet but strong.

The driver of the truck rushed Betorti to the Jameson Memorial hospital where it was found he had sustained lacerations of the head, face and hands.

According to State Highway Patrolman Sarko who investigated the accident Betorti was walking on the right side of the highway toward New Castle. The truck was being operated in the same direction.

Milliron claims the lights of a car coming from an opposite direction blinded him and he did not see the pedestrian.

Chewton Streets Being Improved

Chewton will remember the civil works administration. By reason of the CWA Chewton is rapidly coming out of the mud and neighbors can visit each other without leaving a forwarding address when they leave home.

All of the cross streets in Chewton are being asked and the community opinion of the CWA seems to be that it has performed a large amount of good in that spot.

About forty men are at work on the CWA project there and in addition to providing the men with work and money, the resultant good to the town is large.

Reduce Hours On C. W. A. Jobs

Orders Received From State

Director To Cut Down

Time For Employees

ORDER CREATES SOME CONFUSION

No more men will be added to any CWA project, nor will any new projects be started according to a statement today by Deputy CWA Administrator Matthew Gunton. A telegraphic order reducing hours and stopping additions to payrolls was received late Friday from Eric H. Biddle, state CWA administrator.

Under the terms of the order, which is modeled after the order of National Administrator Harry Hopkins, the hours of employment are reduced from 30 to 24 hours per week in cities of 2500 or more population. In boroughs under 2,500 and in the open country, the hours are reduced from 30 to 15.

The order does not apply to clerical, administrative or supervisory workers, although there is some doubt what is meant by a "wage adjustment that is proportionate."

Some Confusion
There is also some confusion as to whether the new rule applies to highway workers who are under the direction of the State Highway Department but are on CWA projects.

These men have been making 40 cents per hour against 50 cents per hour for other projects.

The working days for the CWA forces in New Castle will be Friday, Saturday, Monday and Tuesday, according to H. L. Stewart, engineer in charge of projects. This will make the required 24 hours per week. The rural districts the men will work 7 1/2 hours each day on Monday and Tuesday.

Just short of $52,000 is being distributed today on the CWA payroll. This will be the peak for some time at least, as the order prohibits new men being taken on and also cuts down their weekly income. The checks are being distributed on a schedule covering all day.

UNSIGNED NOTE SAYS KIDNAPED BANKER IS DEAD

between the kidnap gang and the Bremer family.

Authorities believe the note the work of a crank. Meanwhile the Bremer family in a public statement addressed to the kidnapers declared they had the $200,000 ransom money ready and were anxious to pay in order to insure Bremer's release.

Still Missing
St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 20.—Edward G. Bremer, kidnaped president of the Commercial State bank, today was still being held by an abduction gang who four days ago demanded payment of $200,000 ransom if his life was to be spared.

Optimism gave way to fearful anxiety for the wealthy young banker's safety as his family, one of the wealthiest and most influential in St. Paul, maintained a ceaseless vigil.

Following out instructions given by the kidnapers, Adolph Bremer, prominent Democratic leader and father of the missing man, has provided the staggering ransom payment in used bills. Yet no word, apparently, had come from the abductors.

Bloodstains found in the missing man's abandoned automobile heightened the anxiety of Bremer's family, although his colleagues failed to show alarm at the discovery.

"Ed is quick tempered," said H. M. Kalscheur, vice president of the bank. "He probably struck at the kidnapers. The stains might have come from a bloody nose."

Hold Forces In Check
Federal department of justice agents and a small army of police were holding their forces in check, meanwhile, in deference to the clatter Bremer's request that no move be made that might jeopardize the missing man's life.

One and only one witness to the actual kidnaping has been found. He is James Quinehan, driver of a milk wagon, who happened by the Summit grade school when the kidnapers were transferring their victim from his private automobile to their own. Bremer had just deposited his 8 year old daughter, Betty, at the school doors and was driving away to his office.

From Quinehan's story federal operatives hoped to glean some clue that would shed light on the identity of the kidnapers. Quinehan, however, insisted that he did not see the men closely enough to identify them.

No Contact Yet
"I saw two automobiles a block away," the eye-witness explained. "The Bremer automobile had stopped at Lexington avenue (an arterial highway) when a large sedan swung in front of it. That was between 8:20 and 8:30 in the morning."

"I thought it was an accident. Then I saw the other car moving away and the Bremer automobile was trailing behind it. At the time I didn't know it was a kidnaping, at all."

Miss Bremer disclosed that as yet no direct contact had been made with the abductors. Two communications were received shortly after Bremer was kidnaped, one by telephone and the other is a crudely typewritten note demanding $200,000 in used bills.

Both messages carried a threat that Bremer would be slain unless the ransom demands were met and information be withheld from police.

NEARLY 600 MEN WORKING IN PARK

are on the job, and there are scores of them, the scene reminds them of camp days particularly those men who served in the 28th division. Their memory goes back to the days when they cleared the cottonwood trees off Monte Sano, outside the city of Augusta, Georgia. The wood smoke from a dozen bon fires adds to the illusion of camp days, and about all that is needed to complete it is to have some leather lunged bugler blowing "Assembly."

In all there are about 550 men at work in Cunningham Park but they are scattered over such an immense area that one hardly realizes the magnitude of the project.

Carrying out the military simile there is a G. H. Q. in about the middle of the area One of the old buildings from Cascade Park has been transformed into a headquarters office where the engineers and timekeepers are located. Another building has been completed which will be used as a lunch room for the men.

It is an interesting piece of work. Cunningham Park, one that is costing the city little for tools but is doing work that might have gone undone for years.

Choral Society Being Formed

While no organization was perfected Friday night the preliminary steps were taken to organize an East Side Choral Society when a group of singers met in the Third U. P. church.

Many choirs hold their weekly rehearsal on Friday night which made it impossible for many to be present. A further meeting will be held Tuesday night, January 23, in the Third U. P. church at which time it is hoped to perfect the organization and arrange for rehearsals.

Missing Air Mail Contracts Found

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Who's the "big bad wolf" that "planted the missing air mail and ocean mail files in former postmaster general Walter F. Brown's personal packing boxes?" This question was the topic of the hour in every official gathering here today from the congressional cloak-rooms to the diplomatic tea tables as the Capital remained agog over Brown's sensational appearance with the missing files in his charge that "character assassins" had planted them in his personal belongings, and his quick departure for New York.

"It would be interesting to know who could have surreptitiously put those files in General Brown's boxes," said Senator Hugo Black, Democratic chairman of the senate committee which is investigating the air and ocean mail contracts awarded under the Hoover administration.

"I certainly would like to see the evidence General Brown speaks of," Black added.

The Alabama senator suggested that, "after General Brown's excellent example," perhaps some other missing files might be found in packing boxes."

In presenting the missing documents to Postmaster General Farley, Brown said he was "amazed" to find them in a packing box with books and personal belongings which he had shipped to his home when he left the department.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 20.—A bandit identified as Eddie Huffman, 22, formerly a prizefighter, jumped into the automobile of William Spitzel, wealthy jewelry company executive, early today and ordered Spitzel to "throw 'em up."

Spitzel replied quickly: "I can't. I'm going to faint."

Huffman then reached for the automobile wheel and Spitzel grabbed the bandit's gun and shot him dead.

New Castle High Tops Ellwood City

New Castle High Remains
Undeclared In Section
Three, Score Is
42 To 15

Reiber, Ridley, Kelly High Point Men, Ellwood
Leads First Quarter

New Castle high school basketball team gained a 42 to 15 victory last night at George Washington junior high gym over a fast Ellwood City basketball team. It was New Castle's third straight victory of the year in section three. Captain Lester "Bus" Reiber was high scorer of the game with ten points. Only a fair sized crowd witnessed the game. In the preliminary the New Castle reserves defeated Ellwood City reserves 22 to 11.

The Ellwood City high team started out in fine manner and held a 6 to 5 lead at the end of the first period, with McFadden and Tammara scoring field goals and one foul apiece. The best New Castle could do in the first period was five points through field goals by Ridley and Kelly and a foul by the tall center.

In the second period the complexion of the game changed somewhat with New Castle stepping out to score 17 points, while Ellwood City was held to a lone point. The score at the half was 22 to 7. A foul by Bunney was the only point for Ellwood City. Captain Reiber of the New Castle team caged four field goals in the second stanza.

The third period found New Castle sending in a number of substitutes. The score at the end of the third period was 28 to 10, with Ridley scoring two field goals and Betty dropping two fouls. In the fourth period the entire New Castle second team was on the court and the boys who generally warm the bench scored 14 points. Ellwood City was held to five more points in the fourth period, with Alex Robuck caging two fouls and Scopellite, a sub, making a field goal and foul.

The last bats in the game were Reiber, Ridley and Kelly for New Castle, with Hitchens also shining, while for Ellwood City the fine playing of Robuck, Tammara, McFadden and Scopellite was noticeable.

The New Castle high reserves landed the Ellwood City reserves a 22 to 11 defeat in the preliminary game. The score at the half favored New Castle 10 to 3, with Luxenberg, Cole, Nigro, Miles, Tuscano and Nahas doing the bulk of the scoring.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Far from the riotous scenes of his glamorous successes, James (Jimmy) Clabby, 42, one-time famous middleweight was found dead in a Hammond, Ind., house. Clabby, whose ring exploits won him a small fortune almost a score of years ago, died penniless. Some say he earned half a million. He fought from New York to Sydney, Australia, in London, England and back again. He won the Australian middleweight title in 1917 by defeating Tommy Uren in 20 rounds. He was a gifted boxer, fast as a streak of lightning and had a marvelous body. After losing his ring earnings he lived with his father. Two years ago his father was killed in an auto accident. After that Jimmy faded out completely. He was married and the father of three children. Among the topnotchers he fought was George Chip of this city who mounted the middleweight throne when he de-throned Frank Klaus.

Chick Davis, varsity basketball coach has been signed a new contract for a term of three years at Duquesne University.

Rainbow has been chosen as the name for the new America's cup yacht, under construction, at Bristol, R. I. The British challenger is the Endeavor. Rainbow will defend the cup off Newport next September.

Francis Shields beat J. Gilbert Hall 6-4, 6-3, 5-7, 10-8 and George Lett turned back Laird Watt, 8-6, 6-1, 11-9 in the semifinals of the Canadian singles at Montreal. They will meet today in the finals.

Duquesne beat Carnegie Tech 43-19, W. & J. upset Bucknell, 33-6, Bethany defeated Fairmont, 46-42. Davis-Ellins battered West Virginia Wesleyan, 54-31 and George Washington overcame Virginia Poly, 40-19, in basketball last night.

Judge K. M. Landis has denied the application of "Shoelace" Jackson for reinstatement to organized baseball. Joe will not be the only one permanently barred. The others will be his cronies who are said to have confessed to throwing the 1919 world series to the Cincinnati Reds while they were with the White Sox.

Frank Wolfe, former Penn State star and now head coach and athletic director at Waynesburg is spoken of as a possible successor to Carl Snavely as football coach at Bucknell.

Jimmy Vaughn, Cleveland, defeated Johnny Farr, also of Cleveland at Cleveland last night. They went six rounds before 1371 boxing addicts.

(International News Service)
WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Jan. 20.—While a $49,000 fire raged in City hall, city officials stood by and cheered.

Mayor Harris, councilman Maitland, city treasurer, Bowman and the city controller Fick considered it a job well done when they tossed into the flames of the city hall furnace a packet containing $49,000 worth of city scrip issued early last year to tide the city over a period of serious financial difficulties.

All except $200 worth of the scrip has been redeemed and the city is starting the new year with a fair balance in its treasury.

Titans Defeat Allegheny 46-22

Wesley Bennett With 22 Points Is High Scorer Of Game At Meadville

Before being named Weiserburg, Selinsgrove was also known as Gabriels, Georgetown, Drumtown and Charlestown, in honor of early settler. It was first named Gabriels after its original settler, George Gabriels, who built a cabin near the mouth of Penn Creek in 1745.

The deed recording brought to light a deed signed by the members of the Penn family, proprietors of Pennsylvania, and tendered to Conrad Weiser and his wife, Barbara, for Lot No. 26 in the town of Weiserburg. The document, dated September 24, 1773, is now in possession of Mrs. Katherine K. Burns, who owns the land.

The town site finally received its present name of Selinsgrove in 1784 from Anthony Selin, a Swiss soldier of fortune and a major in the continental army, who came here and purchased the lands of the Weisers, Drums, and Snyders. He married Catherine Snyder, sister of John and Simon.

The score at the half favored the Westminister band 22 to 10. Allegheny's best effort was in the early stages of the second half when they were behind only seven points at 23 to 16, for a short time and then Westminister stepped on the gas again and with Bennett and Sweeney scoring at will, soon had a commanding lead. Douglass and Leyshock had six points apiece for the Lawthermen.

Lubic and McKim were the best bets in the Allegheny lineup the former having nine points, while McKim made five points.

This was the 35th renewal of the basketball series between the two schools and Westminister made it 13 victories in a row over the Allegheny combination.

Tax Receipt No Longer Necessary To Register

Voting in Pennsylvania does not depend upon a tax receipt now. In his hospital room in New York Friday, Governor Gifford Pinchot signed the Mansfield bill which carries out the wishes of the people as expressed in the election in November. This was the passage of the amendment to the constitution abolishing the tax qualification.

In the future, registration may be accomplished by the citizen merely presenting himself at the registration booth and having his name entered there.

Passed along with other election reform legislation the tax requirement for registration to vote was thought to be a safeguard against corrupt elections. While it did avoid some of the evils, it also developed the evil of candidates and politicians buying up hundreds of tax receipts before a registration day and voting the persons named on the receipt.

The governor also signed a pension bill which provides gratuities of $30 per month for blind persons. If there is more than one blind person in the family the second one gets $15 per month.

The "Old Age Assistance Bill" was also signed Friday. This grants a pension of $30 per month to indigent persons over 70 years of age who fulfill certain requirements.

The average price paid per pound was eleven and a quarter cents, one-third higher than last year, while the state champion baby beaver was sold for 55 cents a pound, 20 cents higher than in 1933.

State farm officials were also pleased with another record attendance. It was estimated that 287,000 persons visited the exposition during the show week as compared with the previous record of 275,000.

Hope To Complete Jury Selection In Touhy Trial Today

Only Need Two More Jurors To Complete List, In Court At Chicago

(International News Service) CHICAGO, Jan. 20.—With ten jurors selected, two of them only tentatively, a complete jury was expected to be installed today to pass judgment on Roger "The Terrible" Touhy and three of his gang followers for the sensational $70,000 ransom abduction of John "Jake the Barber" Factor.

To insure an early start on the actual trial, in which Touhy and his co-defendants face the possibility of a sentence to death in the electric chair, Judge Michael Feinberg ordered in another special venire of 100 prospective jurors today.

Special investigators were probing into the past lives of all ten jurors now on the panel. Two other veniremen, after being selected, were hailed before the court for perjury and contempt.

On Court House Hill

Miss Martha Bigley, who is at work at the court house compiling Lawrence county historical data for the department at Harrisburg, has obtained from Attorney George W. Muse, a valuable sketch on original land titles in Lawrence county. The data was prepared by Attorney Muse over twenty years ago when he was employed in the Harrisburg. It goes back to the time when the Indians owned Pennsylvania, and tells how the land was acquired by white settlers. It is a story that should prove of great educational value, both to the younger generation, and older people as well.

In the article which follows Attorney Muse's article is advised that it contains the essential data regarding early titles to land in this county. "If the question were asked what is understood by 'donation land' few outside the legal profession could answer, and yet over half of Lawrence county is donation land, given or donated to soldiers of the revolutionary war for services during that struggle. Then again we have in Lawrence county what are called depreciation lands. During the revolutionary war the general assembly of Pennsylvania, promised to donate land to soldiers, and further to sell land to all soldiers of the Keystone state, taking in consideration therefore the face value of the certificates with which the soldiers were paid. The colonies at that time had no monetary system or currency, and used for money what were termed certificates, and as the war progressed these certificates became of very low value.

Immediately after the purchase from the Indians in 1765 of all the land north of the Ohio and west of the Allegheny river and Conewago creek, the general assembly ordered several thousand acres surveyed within this territory, to be sold to the soldiers for their depreciated certificates. These lands were laid out in what is now Beaver, Armstrong and Butler counties and the lower part of Lawrence, and were known as depreciation lands. The northern line runs east and west about six or eight miles south of the present site of New Castle. However, the most of the land sold for these certificates was in Beaver county, the only land in Lawrence being in Perry township along Camp Run. As early as March 7, 1780, while the revolution was in progress, the general assembly of Pennsylvania made a promise of certain donation and quantities of land to the soldiers. They were to be surveyed and divided at the end of the war and allotted to those entitled to receive them according to their rank.

In 1783 the general assembly passed an act which provided that certain country, beginning at the north line of depreciation lands on the south and extending to the northern line of the state and comprising what is now Lawrence, Butler, Venango, Forest, Warren, Mercer, Crawford and Erie counties should be reserved for the purpose of carrying into execution the resolution of March, 1780. When the land was ready to be surveyed it was divided into ten districts. The first and second districts of donation lands are both within the boundaries of Lawrence county. The first district was surveyed by William Alexander, and the lots surveyed by him are in what are now North Beaver, Taylor, Shenango and Slippery Rock townships.

The second district was surveyed by John Henderson in 1786 and comprises the present townships of Neshannock, Union and Hickory, and part of Wilmington.

The surveyor of the second district in running his south line, by some mistake, a few perches west of Shenango, ran his line too far to the north, and left a gap from this point to his eastern line between the first and second districts. This gap was discovered by a surveyor named Joseph Swearingen, who had a warrant issued to him for 400 acres of land between these two lines on the 28th of December, 1802. He sold his title to John Stewart, who had this land patented to him in June, 1805. John Stewart was the founder of New Castle.

This line is supposed to have run along what is now South street, across the Neshannock to the North of what is known as the Irish tract on the east side.

Jared Irwin patented the tract west of Stewart, and Robert McCaslin and John McHaphey patented the land west of Irwin. The Stewart, Irwin, McCaslin and McHaphey surveys are located between the first and second district lines. The mistake of the surveyors running the south line of district No. 2, left a tract of about 117 acres on the west of the Shenango between the two districts. This tract was warranted to Cornelius Henderson Feb. 28, 1912, who sold it to a man named Fulkerson, who in turn sold to Ebenezer Byers and George McDonald, who acquired a patent March 9, 1924. This would probably include what is now known as Rhinetown.

With these exceptions the remainder of the land included in the City of New Castle was donated to soldiers. Immediately north of the John Stewart tract on the east side of the Shenango, was a 200 acre lot granted to Gerald Craig. This tract would include what is now the Highland Avenue district. George Crow, a private, received a tract in what is now Croton. Immediately north of Crow's tract and 500 acres were granted to Captain John Steel or Steen. This same captain, it is believed, was the first soldier of the revolution to be buried in New Castle.

The land at the junction of the Neshannock and Shenango rivers, being now the lower part of the first ward and a part of the fifth ward, was granted to James Smith, a private. South of this tract was issued to George Kettle, private. On the east of these tracts Nathaniel Irish and William Henderson, captains, each were granted 500 acres.

Baron Steuben, the Polish patriot and the drill master of Washington's army, was given 500 acres of land east of New Castle in what is now Hickory township.

The townships of Pulaski, Mahoning, Washington, Plaingrove, Scott, Wayne, Big Beaver, and Little Beaver, while included in the donation and depreciation districts, yet no land was surveyed in these townships for the purpose given above, and the land was thrown open to the public to be taken by warrant survey and patent.

In 1793 John Nicholson, comptroller of the Pennsylvania Population Land Company, this company took up large quantities of land in the western part of the state. This company had surveyed and patented to them nearly all the lands in Pulaski, Mahoning, Little Beaver and Big Beaver townships, laying out the land in 400 acre lots. The Population company ran into a snag with settlers later, but patents were finally issued to James McBride, John McFarland, David McFarland, Samuel McBride, George McWilliams and William Porter's heirs.

Nearly all the land in Wayne township was taken up by Benjamin Chew, a wealthy Philadelphian, who purchased in all about 24,000 acres in what is now Lawrence county. Among pioneers who later secured tracts of it were Alexander Aiken, James Aiken, Richard Bevers, James Morton, Robert White, Samuel White, James Ewe, William Cairns and Alexander Morrison. Many of their descendants still live here.

In Scott, Plaingrove and Washington township the chief speculator seems to have been Peter Mowrey, who had about 3000 acres patented to him. Among those who acquired the land were John Harlan, Robert Wallace, David Emery, William Peebles, Enocj Dean, John McGee, McWilliams, Campbells, Hettenbaugh and others.

There were very few tracts taken up since Lawrence county was established in 1849, and most of these are very small tracts which had been overlooked in original surveys.

St. Andrews Men Hear Fine Talks On Friday Night

Men's Club Of St. Andrews Hear Fine Message From Rev. Broadhurst

St. Andrews Men's club turned out 40 strong last night at the church to hear a special message by Rev. Broadhurst of Titusville, Pa., who has been conducting services at St. Andrews since his arrival here.

In his talk to the Men's club Rev. Broadhurst reviewed the various subjects he has used all week and in general the talk was very enlightening and enjoyed thoroughly by the men. The Men's club with President Tommy Evans and William Wignall leading the procession, marched into the church in a body. The Men's club occupied a special section of the church.

Following the church service, the Men's club members went to the basement of the church and held their regular Friday night business and social meeting. President Tommy Evans again introduced Rev. Broadhurst to the club and he gave them another fine talk. C. W. Herman Hess was also present again last evening and was called upon for a speech. He responded with the other of his fine talks given in his own inevitable manner. He spoke of the merits of the St. Andrews club and of the benefit being derived on the south side by this fine organization.

William Wignall, counselor of the club, gave another interesting talk and thanked Rev. Broadhurst and Mr. Hess for being present and for their fine messages to the men.

President Tommy Evans gave the men a surprise when he presented films of "Tires" which were enjoyed to the utmost.

Rev. Black gave a brief opening address to the club. The social hour that followed the speaking program found William Evans singing a solo; Fred Kessel, Mr. Wolford, Bob Falls and John Hitchens also singing solos. There was a light lunch served following the social hour.

The meeting last night was one of the best that has been held for some time by the St. Andrews Men's club. This club is creating a lot of interest on the south side.
